

Chris Lubbe

On Friday 16th June, Chris Lubbe - Nelson's Mandela's bodyguard - came into school to talk about his life and the inequalities of South Africa.

Chris had an amazing life but emotional one also. Chris is an inspiring character, his life story is so inspirational as there were times in his life when things were hard and he could have easily given up - but he didn't.

Chris Lubbe's story is very emotional but also important because it could change your view on the world and life itself.

I think it is amazing how Chris has had such a tough life but is still a kind, confident man. Chris has taught me not to take anything for granted, as Chris's one dream was to have a tap - something that most people have. When Chris was telling us his life it really upset me because no one should go through that in life.
